LOGOS was born in 1996 as an Italian progressive rock cover band, playing mainly Le Orme and Banco del Mutuo Soccorso.

The same year, the band grew to five people, starting to compose its own music and making live performances. Due to good feedbacks to its music, the band recorded in 1999 the first album, titled "LogoS", showing great songs and lyrics, describing fantastic and unreal worlds, and giving some philosophical points of view. Some classic covers (King Crimson, Jethro Tull, Genesis) were added and after some line-up changes, the band recorded the second album "Asrava", out in the 2001, that receives a lot of awesome and enthusiastic reviews.

After that, the band saw better days: it started to face problems getting performance dates and audience places; and some other line-up changes delayed the job on new stuff. But, after all, the band carried on to produce its own music and in 2010 LogoS played at "Progressioni Sonore" and "Verona Prog Fest", opening for Biglietto per L'inferno. In 2012, they played three times at Il Posto Castello and opened for the well-known Genesis cover band The Watch.

Out in the spring of 2014 for label Andromeda Relix, "L'enigma della vita" is the third album and a LogoS' milestone: it has eleven tracks that take the band thirteen years to write and record.

The album has received several good feedbacks from reviewers and progressive lovers all over the world.

The band usually plays it live, reaching outstanding performances at "Progressive Melody 2014" festival at Giovanni XXIII Theater in Cusano Milanino (MI) and at Club Il Giardino in Verona, an incredible SOLD-OUT night!

The band has pressed a vinyl version of "L'enigma della vita", available since January 2015 and distributed by PickUp Records.

Planned for 2015 LogoS has: May 17th at Palco Verde of Riviera Prog Festival at F.I.M. (Fiera Internazionale della Musica) of Genova with main names as Goblin Rebirth, Cherry Five, UT New Trolls, Bernardo Lanzetti, FEM and ELP Project; May 22nd at Brescia with Phoenix Again and June the 12th at Verona Prog Fest with Dark Ages.
